RIVIERA NAYARIT REBOUNDS IN 2010 WITH HIGHEST OCCUPANCY RATE IN MEXICO AND BRAND AWARENESS INCREASE IN NORTH AMERICAN MARKET

Riviera Nayarit, Mexico (February 15, 2011) – Last year proved to be a banner year for Riviera Nayarit, Mexico. Following a challenging tourism year for Mexico, there is conclusive evidence that Riviera Nayarit is not only garnering more brand awareness amongst travel agents and consumers, but has also experienced a significant increase in hotel occupancy.

According to data collected by the Tourism Department (SECTUR) of the Mexican Federal Government and released on February 3rd, 2011, occupancy rates for Riviera Nayarit improved by 33.2% over 2009 and closed with the highest occupancy rate increase in the country. In support of the data, Riviera Nayarit saw a 14.3% increase of visitor arrivals to the destination in 2010 compared to 2009.

The Riviera Nayarit Convention and Visitors Bureau also welcomed several new members into the region's Association of Hotels and Motels. With the inclusion of new members, the inventory of rooms has increased by 5%. New hotels include: Marival Residences; Imanta; Taheima; Grand Luxxe and La Tranquila.

“This is concrete evidence that tourism to Riviera Nayarit is slowly recuperating from previous challenging years. We are thrilled to see these kinds of numbers as it reinforces our tourism promotion efforts and solidifies the destination as one that will continuously keep growing, regardless of the obstacles,” said Marc Murphy, Managing Director of the Riviera Nayarit CVB.

Moreover, data from a survey conducted among North American travelers and travel agents show that brand awareness has also significantly increased from 2009 to 2010.

Among Americans, 13% of travelers surveyed recognize the Riviera Nayarit brand and link the destination with high quality holiday products. This is an increase of 5.3% over 2009 when only 4.3% claimed to be familiar with the destination. Studies have also shown that 70% of consumers recognize the Riviera Nayarit brand in 2010, over 47% in 2009. In Canada, 15.7% of those that travel were familiar of Riviera Nayarit, whereas in 2010, that number increased to 23.8%. 43.8% of which were informed online via destination packages.

Travel agents of these two North American countries, promoting Riviera Nayarit have made significant progress. 34.5% of U.S. agents have full knowledge of the destination and what it offers, while 50.4% indicate that they recognize the destination's well known attractions. Also, 20% of travel agents say that Riviera Nayarit had the most promotion in the last 6 months and 22% of travel agents want to experience the destination.

RIVIERA NAYARIT AND PUERTO VALLARTA CHOSEN AS SITE OF TIANGUIS 2012

Riviera Nayarit, Mexico (July 28, 2011) – The Ministry of Tourism of Mexico (SECTUR) has announced that Riviera Nayarit and Puerto Vallarta will be the site of the 2012 Tianguis Turistico. The event will take place in March 2012.

The destination was chosen because of its superb tourism facilities, excellent air connections, excellent convention center and the security procedures for participants, according to Fernando Olivera Rocha, Subsecretary of Tourism Operations. The area includes 29,000 hotel rooms and a 160,000 square ft. convention center for up to 7,000 participants.

In March, Sectur informed the travel industry that Tianguis would no longer be held at Acapulco, which had been the site of the important trade event for 36 years, and henceforth would move to a different region each year in order to promote the different regions of the country. Eighteen regions presented proposals to host Tianguis. Riviera Nayarit and Puerto Vallarta's "Two Destinations, ONE Paradise" proposal was chosen for 2012. Puebla will host the event in 2013 and Quintana Roo will be the site of Tianguis 2014.

"We are very pleased that Riviera Nayarit and its neighbor, Puerto Vallarta, were chosen for Tianguis. Our destinations give visitors an authentic experience of Mexico's culture, history, nature, luxury, cuisine and style," said Marc Murphy, Director of the Riviera Nayarit Convention and Visitors Bureau. "We launched Riviera Nayarit as Mexico's newest destination at Tianguis 2007 so our selection for Tianguis 2012 is particularly meaningful. We look forward to welcoming the many tour operators, travel agents, media and industry leaders from around the world who attend Tianguis each year"

Riviera Nayarit: Where timeless Mexican Authenticity and Charm meet 21st Century Luxury

How do you preserve Mexico's timeless authenticity and charm while building one of the country's newest luxury vacation destinations? In the case of Riviera Nayarit, which hugs 192 miles of beaches and coastline on the Pacific Coast north of Puerto Vallarta, you do it by recognizing that the unique character and laid back personality that has been attracting visitors since the first surfers and artists arrived some fifty years ago can thrive happily alongside some of the most exclusive resort brand names and golf celebrities as well as outstanding vacation home real estate opportunities.

Since 2008, the public and private sectors in Mexico as well as international investors have poured millions into developing world-class tourism facilities and services in Riviera Nayarit, such as Four Seasons and St. Regis resorts and signature golf courses by the likes of Jack Nicklaus, Greg Norman and Arnold Palmer. In fact, readers of Conde Nast named Nicklaus's new Pacifico Golf Course at the Four Seasons Punta Mita as the Number One course in the World. Punta Mita, the centerpiece of Nayarit's luxury resort and real estate development, has quickly earned an international reputation as "the" place to be and be seen. "In fact, readers of Conde Nast named Nicklaus's new Bahia golf course in Punta Mita as the Number One course in the World."

Nevertheless, in addition to cosmopolitan luxury, this gem of a vacation destination is equally appealing for its charming independent boutique hotels, history dating back to the Aztec civilization, unspoiled fishing villages, authentic "down home" Mexican cooking, quality deep sea fishing and surfing, and, of course, beautiful beaches – all the qualities that once made a grueling long drive down from California and beyond worth the trip.

In contrast, today Nayarit is easily reached by air from major gateways in North America, with service provided by Aero Mexico, Air Canada, Alaska Airlines, American Airlines, Continental, Delta, Frontier, Transat, United Airlines, and US Airways. Puerto Vallarta International Airport is the nearest commercial airport to Nayarit - only 10 minutes south of Nuevo Vallarta and 40 minutes from Punta Mita.

But location is only one reason for Riviera Nayarit's rapidly growing popularity and recognition, which includes being named one of the top 10 destinations in the world to visit in 2010 by "Hideaways International," the best beach destination in Mexico by "Travel Weekly," and one of the top five destinations in the world for second home purchase by "International Property Journal."

Protected by the Sierra Madre Mountains and encompassing one of North America's largest bays, Banderas, which is renowned for its extensive variety of water sports from diving and snorkeling to sailing and deep sea fishing, Riviera Nayarit offers an intoxicating mix of towns and villages, diverse natural environments, and plentiful recreational activities. Bucerias, for example, is a tiny fishing village that has become a hot spot for dining and shopping near the resorts of Nuevo Vallarta. La Cruz de Huanacastle, another fishing village, now features a new marina capable of accommodating the largest of ocean-going yachts. Punta Mita is known for its gated luxury resort and residential communities. The port city of San Blas, with its colonial history, excellent restaurants and many beaches, also is famous for its extraordinary abundance of migratory birds and La Tovara National Park, a federally protected sanctuary for birds, crocodiles and turtles.

One of the real treasures of Nayarit is Sayulita, discovered by intrepid surfers in the 1960's, that today is an art colony with a thriving expat community, beachfront restaurants and cafes and luxurious spas and private villas. With a decidedly bohemian feel, it entices residents and visitors alike with its collection of art galleries and stylish shops selling everything from high fashion to local art and handicrafts displayed by native Huichol Indians in the town's central plaza.

With natural environments ranging from underwater worlds to rugged mountains, Riviera Nayarit is also nature lover's paradise. An exceptional variety of wildlife includes everything from giant manta rays and humpback whales, to protected sea turtles, and rare migratory birds – 250 species – that draw expert ornithologists from around the world.

Among the most popular nature pursuits are whale watching on a catamaran and participation in sea turtle preservation efforts. During the summer and fall months, it is possible to visit Grupo Ecológico de la Costa Verde's marine turtle nursery, located in the San Francisco area of Riviera Nayarit. Indigenous to destination, the Olive Ridley is one of the smallest species of sea turtle and the official mascot of Riviera Nayarit.

Diving and snorkeling in crystal clear aquamarine waters to get closer to colorful coral reefs and underwater species is another popular pursuit and Greenpeace has recently recognized Nayarit as "the only destination in Mexico offering timely information on water quality at its beaches." Sanctuaries for rare birds are located in Islas Marietas, a collection of small islands that are also home to rare coral reefs. In Las Caletas and Banderas Bay, visitors can even swim and interact with friendly seals while outdoor adventurers can explore the rich natural habitats of the forests and Sierra Madre Mountains.

For a change of pace, Riviera Nayarit's cultural history dates back thousands of years, encompassing four ethnic traditions, including pre-Columbian cultures and the Huichols. Riviera Nayarit's excellent preservation of its culture can be seen in its native Huichol tribe who have preserved their rich culture and ancient beliefs through their art. The Huichols are renowned for their beaded animal figures and elaborate yarn paintings containing symbols borne out of their culture and shamanistic traditions. Mexcaltitan is a small island of floating mangroves that is reputed to be the birthplace of the Aztecs. Archeological sites with hundreds of petroglyphs and vestiges of ancient villages remain, still awaiting excavation to become accessible to visitors.

Whatever your interests, from championship golf and five-star dining to total escape from pressures of civilization back home, the diversity of vacation experiences in Riviera Nayarit will be irresistible. Come for a visit; you might just decide to make it home.
